PATHWAYS

OUR PATHWAYS PROGRAM FOR APPRENTICES AND TRAINEES IS DELIVERING MORE JOBS FOR LOCAL WESTERN DOWNS PEOPLE.

Shell is committed to supporting employment growth and economic development in the areas where we operate.

The QGC Pathways Apprenticeships and Trainee Program will increase the number of employees who live in regional centres by providing career opportunities for local people.

Shell values its inclusive and diverse workforce and mature age workers, women and Indigenous people are strongly encouraged to apply for the program.

Do you meet these requirements?

- ✔ Live in the Western Downs area
- ✔ Value safety awareness and are committed to upholding safety standards
- ✔ A team player with great communications skills
- ✔ A thirst to learn and willingness to adapt to an ever-changing environment
- ✔ Welcome the opportunity to work in a diverse team

You are eligible to apply.

WHAT DOES THE QGC PATHWAYS PROGRAM OFFER?

The program offers apprenticeships and traineeships in:

- Mechanical fitting
- Electrical and Instrumentation
- Process plant and wellsite operations
- Warehousing and logistics.

Recruits will receive safety training, experience and mentoring throughout their apprenticeship or traineeship.

At the end of the program participants will obtain a nationally recognised trade qualification.

HOW DO I APPLY?

Applications (once the intake commences) can be lodged through the Shell's QGC business website at: www.shell.com.au/careers/qgc-pathways

Shell's QGC business has partnered with industry specialists MIGAS Apprentices and Trainees to assist the project with recruitment and training. MIGAS has been working with apprentices and employers for more than 30 years and are dedicated to developing talent through QGC's Pathways Program.
